Federal Emergency Management Agency

Date: 2-24-25

Hello,

I am here to inspect your home and personal property for damage caused by the disaster. My name is A. Munoz FBYB and I am an inspector for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

The purpose of today's inspection is to document your disaster-caused damage so FEMA can determine if you are eligible for assistance from FEMA's Individuals and Households Program (IHP).

After I complete and submit my inspection report, FEMA will notify you within 7 to 10 days regarding your eligibility for assistance (the timeframe may be longer in a larger, more widespread disaster).

If you have applied for assistance from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), or other disaster programs, a separate inspector for those programs may also visit your home.

Frequently Asked Questions

• How long will this inspection take?

Depending on the amount of damage, this inspection should not take any longer than forty-five minutes to complete.

• How will damage to my roof or crawl space be inspected?

For the safety of our inspectors, the roof will be inspected from the ground and the crawl space from an exterior vantage point to see if any damage may affect your ability to live in your home.

• How will damage to my home be inspected?

For owners, the inspector will assess the damage as it existed immediately following the event. For renters, the inspector will assess the conditions of the home at the time of inspection.

Inspectors will assess the entire home including access and supporting systems, such as: wells and septic systems. Only disaster-caused damage is recorded.

• Will the inspector need to see receipts or photographs to verify my damage?

Generally, the inspector will not need to view receipts or photographs. However, if you begin clean up before the inspection, FEMA recommends you take pictures, make a list of your losses, and keep all receipts to verify your disaster expenses.

• Can I get help from FEMA if I have insurance?

You may be eligible for assistance if your insurance settlement does not meet all your disaster needs. However, by law, FEMA cannot duplicate benefits you may receive from your insurance company. If you have not already done so, please contact your insurance agent to file a claim.

NOTE: You may be randomly selected for a re-inspection as part of FEMA's Quality Control program to help us evaluate the overall performance of our inspectors.

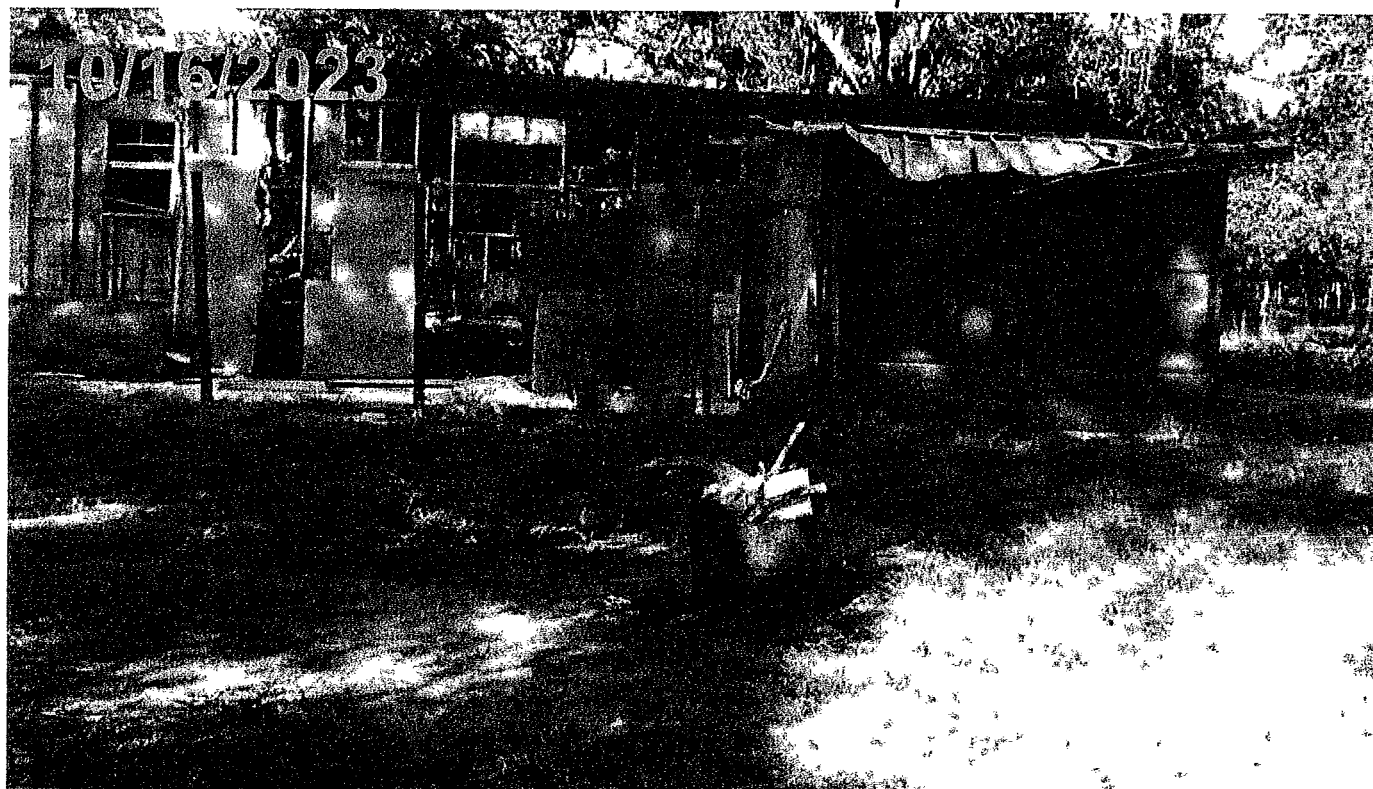

If you have questions regarding disaster assistance or to check the status of your application, please call FEMA's Helpline at 800-621-FEMA (3362) or visit www.DisasterAssistance.gov.
