Figure 6

(A) Schematic representation of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group (CG) and the intervention group (IG). The CG received no treatment, while the IG received a 10-week intervention consisting of a combination of physical therapy and cognitive behavioral therapy. The outcome measures were assessed at baseline, post-intervention, and follow-up.

(B) Bar chart showing the mean scores of the outcome measures for the CG and IG at baseline, post-intervention, and follow-up. The Y-axis represents the mean score (range 0-100), and the X-axis represents the outcome measure (Pain, Disability, Quality of Life, and Satisfaction). The CG is represented by white bars, and the IG is represented by black bars. Error bars represent the standard deviation.

(C) Line graph showing the mean scores of the outcome measures for the CG and IG over time. The Y-axis represents the mean score (range 0-100), and the X-axis represents time (Baseline, Post-intervention, Follow-up). The CG is represented by a white line, and the IG is represented by a black line. Error bars represent the standard deviation.

Figure 1: Schematic representation of the experimental design. The diagram shows a sequence of events: 'Stimulus presentation' (a box with a question mark), 'Response' (a box with a question mark), 'Feedback' (a box with a question mark), and 'Inter-trial interval' (a box with a question mark). The sequence is repeated for multiple trials, with a 'Practice trial' at the beginning and a 'Test trial' at the end. The 'Test trial' is marked with a red 'X'.
